Thomas Sowell and a Conflict of Visions

Visions, however, are the implicit assumptions by which people operate. In politics, visions are either constrained or unconstrained. A closer look at the statements of both McCain and Obama reveals which vision motivates their policy positions, particularly as they pertain to the war, the law, and economics.

A Conflict of Visions Analysis eNotes com

In A Conflict of Visions, Sowell explores this area of interest more broadly. Defining vision as a sort of gut feeling which supplies the basic premises undergirding positions on various political and social issues, Sowell claims to have isolated two persistent, radically opposed visions of human nature and society.
