Married to a Bedouin Marguerite van Geldermalsen

Married to a Bedouin, by Marguerite van Geldermalsen The Bedouin no longer live inside Petra, that ancient city in the south of Jordan. They no longer set up their tents of woven hair on the long, wind-catching ridges and invite passing tourists to share a cup of tea in the shade, an evening meal, or even a place to sleep as they did when I met my husband there in the summer of 1978.

Married to a Bedouin by Marguerite Van Geldermalsen

Unlike Queen Noor's book - this book had a good narrative, and gave me good insight into the world of the Bedouin from a Western woman's perspective. I also enjoyed how she made conscious choices to join in to the culture of her new home, and to abstain when she felt that there was something to gain by doing so.

And as Marguerite feels herself becoming part of the Bedouin community, she is thankful for the twist in fate that has led her to this contented life. Marguerite's light-hearted and guileless observations of the people she comes to love are as heart-warming as they are valuable, charting Bedouin traditions now lost to the modern world.
