Memoirs of an Infantry Officer Amazon de Siegfried

Memoirs of an Infantry Officer, first published in 1930, is Siegfried Sassoon's fictionalized autobiography of the period between the early spring of 1916 and the summer of 1917. The narrative moves from the trenches to the Fourth Army School, to Morlancourt and a raid, then to and through the Somme. The mind of the narrator turns from unquestioning acceptance of the war and of the standards which it set up, to doubting the necessity of the seemingly endless slaughter.

All officers were required to attend the Brigadier's conference. At this function there was no need for me to open my mouth, except for an occasional yawn. Kinjack favored me with a good-humored grin. He only made one further comment on my non-consolidation of that fortuitously captured trench. He would probably leave me out of the "next show" as a punishment, he said. Some people asserted that he had no sense of humor, but I venture to disagree with them.
