Network DVR Wikipedia

Network DVR, or network personal video recorder, or remote storage digital video recorder is a network-based digital video recorder stored at the provider's central location rather than at the consumer's private home.

Traditionally, media content was stored in a subscriber's set-top box hard drive, but with NDVR the service provider owns a large number of servers, on which the subscribers' media content is stored. The term RS-DVR is used by Cablevision for their version of this technology.
