A Failure of Nerve Leadership in the Age of the Quick Fix

A Failure of Nerve is unique among books on leadership. Instead of methods and technique, Friedman focuses on where the leader stands in the emotional system and the critical nature of self-definition (differentiation), which requires "nerve," or a non-anxious presence.

Failures in Foresight The Failure of Nerve Curating the Failure of Nerve. The Failure of Nerve is one of the most frequent of failures when talking or writing about the future, at least in my personal experience. When experts or even laypeople are expressing an opinion about the future, you expect them to be knowledgeable enough to be aware of the facts and the data from the present.

failure of nerve WordReference Forums

The difference between failure of nerve and lack of courage is that the former describes what happens at the moment when push comes to shove, i.e., the moment when you must commit to some action. It could describe a general condition, but context would be required. Lack of courage more describes a general condition.
