The Seamstress by Sara Tuvel Bernstein Goodreads

The Seamstress is the amazing memoir of Seren (Sara) Tuvel, a holocaust survivor. When originally interviewed for her story, she merely referred to her life spent in the concentration camps as a "waste of time". This just gives you an idea of what a remarkable woman she was, with an incredible strength of character. In all senses, she was a "true" survivor.

The Seamstress by Frances de Pontes Peebles Goodreads

I really cannot rave enough about this book. I loved it. LOVED it. It reminded me a bit of One Hundred Years of Solitude, except that I read that book so long ago that you should cut me some slack if the two aren't similar at all. Which, now that I think of it, they really aren't, because The Seamstress isn't a multi-generational story like that one. So never mind.

Much of the book draws on detail from the life of Rosalinda Fox and the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs, Juan Luis Beigbeder and the author successfully weaves a mix of fact and fiction to create a fascinating story.

The Seamstress Online Bookstore Books NOOK ebooks

"The Seamstress" is one of the best of the Holocaust survivor stories. Sara's iron will, ingenuity, bravery and smarts carried her through. Just as important as her story was learning about the Bulgarians and the help they gave to the Jews during WWII. This was news to me, and apparently to many others I know who have read this book. Sit down to read it when you have plenty of time. It's difficult to put down.
