The Short Bus A Journey Beyond Normal by Jonathan Mooney

I was assigned to read The Short Bus, by Jonathan Mooney, for my graduate course in special education. Mooney is dyslexic, and struggled with academics during his childhood. He triumphed, though, and ended up graduating from Brown. He decided to get himself a short yellow school bus, the kind that is immediately associated with taking disabled kids to school, and drive around the country, meeting with disabled students and their families.

THE SHORT BUS is both an exoteric and esoteric travelogue, taking us on the byways of America to the Nevada desert to witness the sybaritic chaos of the Burning Man where nutters of every stripe gather to cast off their sorrows and inhibitions, to Big Bend to Austin to Gibsonton, Florida, traditional haven of the carnie freak. Like Mooney, we examine our own preconceptions as we go, meeting ever stranger strangers and learning to see them as potential friends.
